Q: How to filter an embedded linked list I am new to c++ and I'm trying to solve this challenge: In the Pascal's triangle every element of Pascal's triangle is obtained by multiplying the row of the previous element by itself plus 1. Implement a data structure that can be used to represent a list of elements that allows to search if an element exists in the list. Write a function that removes an element in the list. The function removes a node with the specific index and returns a pointer to the remaining list. Return a pointer to a node that corresponds to the empty list. Here's what I have so far: #include using namespace std; struct Node { int val; Node* next; Node(int data, Node* next) { this->val = data; this->next = next; } }; struct List Node* begin; Node* end; List* CreateList() List* result = new List(); result->begin = result->end = new Node(1, NULL); return result; } Node* search(int data, List* list) while(list->end) if(list->end->val == data) return list->end; list

To the right, a message states 'File was found and ready to download!' with 'UPDATED 14 HOURS AGO'. Below this, the 'Fastest Source' is identified as 'usenet.nl'. A blue 'Download' button with a download icon is present, along with a 'SECURE SCANNED' badge. At the bottom, a message says 'You need to log in before you can post comments.' and three navigation icons are shown: 'Navigation', 'Registration', and 'FAQ'.
