The first coordinated response to a cyberattack happened between the U.S. National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) and the United States Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and was directed at the computer security firm Vupen, which provides software for uncovering such attacks. Vupen released a tool called sqlmap which is a SQL injection tool and it compromises web applications using SQL injection. The first action was made by the White House and DHS and FBI, which created and sent a warning to Internet service providers. It was successful in stopping the attack. The Deputy Undersecretary of DHS announced the case was solved and Vupen had been indicted. The United 570a42141b
