The app is very easy to install, no problems whatsoever. I love the pictures and their ease of installation. The only minor issue I have is that when I put my computer to sleep, the pictures become unresponsive. I then have to restart my computer and the theme is installed again. I have this problem every time I sleep. Other than that, it is an absolute pleasure to use. What's New Version 1.5.0: - Installing the theme no longer requires the user to turn off their computer. - New option to disable automatic spinners to select a picture.Q: Is it normal for the U.S. State Department to complain about the price of a visa? I was just wondering why the US State Department (not the consulates and embassies, as far as I know) complained about the price of my visa. It was a round trip to Ukraine. When I said I'm a British citizen I got the best price I've ever paid for a visa. But the State Department decided it was too high and started a fight. They said I can go to a consulate instead. That meant I would be wasting time and would be wasting money too. I want to know why they started a fight. Can I get an explanation? A: It is normal. There is a limit on the amount of money you can spend on a visa application. If you try to apply for too much, they might say that you have reached the limit, and the price is going to be higher than the one you are getting right now. The specific amount is not too high in your case. The source of information about this is the description of a method that you are advised to follow to apply for visa: Approval, cancellation, and denial of travel documents is done in consultation

I'm working on a fairly large emacs session. While I'm working in one file, Emacs (24.3 on Xubuntu) automatically saves to a separate file every once in a while. Normally this is fine, but when the file I'm working on is large (in terms of characters) Emacs starts timing out on me. How do I stop this? I'd prefer a solution which is conditional, and which doesn't require me to remember to type any particular command every time I start an Emacs session. A: This functionality comes as an integral part of 'auto-save-mode' (or 'auto-save-hook'). You can disable it using a hook. Add the following to your.emacs file. (defun test-hook () (message "hook called")) (setq auto-save-mode nil) (add-hook 'auto-save-mode-hook 'test-hook) Alternatively, you can create a file with name ~/.emacs.d/no-autosave. (Or ~/.emacs.d/no-autosave-test.txt) and add the following. (setq auto-save-mode nil) (setq auto-save-inhibit-time-threshold 0) A: Add this to your.emacs file: (setq auto-save-inhibit-time-threshold 0) This will prevent saving for a period of time. For example, with my.emacs file, saving will be completely disabled for the first 2 hours after Emacs starts. that they had never stopped. She had left me, but not before convincing me that I couldn't outlive her, and not before convincing me that I had never loved her at all. And if I hadn't loved her
