My first file I need to have the name "process.properties" The user of my application should be able to specify the path that they would like to open that file. I am aware of how to get the user to specify the path but how can I determine which directory they want to open? Thanks. A: Maybe you could save the path in an environmental variable. (or set it as a property of the process) Meta I know many people that are addicted to Facebook. I use it, but not in the same way. When I use it, I am going to make sure to check Facebook a lot, but I know I'm not going to get hooked on the application because I will be able to spend all of my free time on other things. When you consider how much time some people spend on the application, it would be better to spend that time on something that you actually want to do. There are many reasons to why you should be a Facebook user. One of them is that the application is going to make it much easier for you to start your own business. When you have hundreds of people following you on your Facebook page, it's going to make it very easy to market yourself to other people. I know that you can go to Google to create a Facebook page for your business, but if you use their tool, there is no guarantee that you will make it to the first page of search results. Instead of paying someone else to create a Facebook page for you, you can do it yourself, and 77a5ca646e
