PROJECT Description: This project allows you to create a web service that is able to generate various types of fractals. The service can generate: Mandelbrot, Barnsley, Magnet, Phoenix, Mandelgrass, Newton M-sets and Custom. The service can also generate many types of fractals when provided with an appropriate function and parameters. The service works by first calculating the point where the function reaches a specific value. Next, the point is iterated. In each iteration the function is evaluated. After the number of iterations specified is reached the service stops. During the execution the service also writes some text to the screen. Fractal generators are written in Java and are able to generate 8 different types of fractals. BuildsFractor3 is a new version of the fractal generator.
