Q: java.lang.NoSuchFieldError when running ProcessBuilder I'm currently working on an application that needs to execute a script (that is a bash script, but it will work with a perl one too) inside of java. To do so I've used the class ProcessBuilder and for the most of things it works very well (it runs a simple script that only shows a dialog and saves some variables), but I've encountered some errors when trying to execute "ssh user@servername -l user -p portname" The errors I've got are: Exception in thread "main" java.lang.NoSuchFieldError: INSTANCE at java.lang.Class.getDeclaredField(Class.java:1989) at java.lang.Class.getField(Class.java:1978) at sun.reflect.generics.factory.CoreReflectionFactory.getField(CoreReflectionFactory.java:51) at sun.reflect.generics.visitor.Reifier.visitField(Reifier.java:108) at sun.reflect.generics.tree.TypeTree.accept(TypeTree.java:72) at sun.reflect.generics.visitor.Reifier.reifyTypeTree(Reifier.java:51) at sun.reflect.generics.visitor.Reifier.visitClassTypeSignature(Reifier.java:129) at sun.reflect.generics.tree.ClassTypeSignature.accept(ClassTypeSignature.java:49) at sun.reflect.generics.repository.MethodRepository.getTypeArguments(MethodRepository.java:89) at sun.reflect.generics.repository.MethodRepository.getTypeArgumentCount(MethodRepository.java:82) at java.lang.Class.getGenericParameterTypes(Class.java:1750) at java.lang.Class.getGenericParameterTypes(Class.java:1766) at java.lang.Class.getGenericParameterTypes(Class.java:1750) at com.sun.tools.jav

What's New In?

I have recently started a new job and am finding learning how to set up SharePoint 2013 & OneDrive for Business to be an interesting learning curve. I am very familiar with SharePoint 2010 and have used the following URL's and know they worked: I have created a new site collection in SharePoint 2010 and I am trying to create a new document library but I cannot find the option to create it. I can see the option to create document libraries and document sets but they seem to be the same thing. Any ideas? I am running Windows Server 2012 R2 and Windows 8.1 and Office 2013. Why do I need to "manually upload my files"? I have a Sharepoint 2010 site and in it I have an OneDrive for Business account. What's the difference between the places where you can upload files manually and the place where you can create a library and file? There's no way to add a new library in the OneDrive folder or even create a new library in the Sharepoint folder. I have yet to find a simple "press this button" button that does what you're asking. You can create a library, and even document sets, but it's not possible to create a new library from OneDrive in the folder. I'm still using 2010 and there's even a button on that site that says "Create a library and document set", but it doesn't seem to work. I had the same problem and was unable to find a solution. In my case, I was trying to access content in the OneDrive folder from the 2010 site, and now my question is: since when have they removed the option to create document libraries in the SharePoint 2013 admin center? Is there any way to force it or is that an oversight? Thanks for the help but as of this morning there is no option to create a document library in the SharePoint 2013 admin center and there are no navigation links to the Library or the Document Sets in the left nav. I have moved files from the Sharepoint 2010 site to a folder in the OneDrive for Business folder, but there is no option to create a document library from that folder. What's the solution to this? OneDrive for Business is not an equivalent of the 2010 web part. The "Community" team is in the process of migrating Community Sites and team sites to Office 365 for end users. There are a variety of benefits for
